What’s Happening Week 8?

You’re Invited to Undergraduate Research Week
Join us for UCLA’s ninth annual Undergraduate Research Week (May 23rd-27th), a week-long celebration of undergraduate research and creativity! In addition to featured events such as the Undergraduate Research and Creativity Showcase on May 24th, campus partners and students organizations are hosting online exhibitions, poster sessions, and presentations of their undergraduate student's work at every stage of the research and creative process. “Where We Might Begin”: Professional Writing Minor Capstone Seminar Colloquium
The UCLA Department of English and UCLA Writing Programs invite you to a special colloquium organized as part of the Undergraduate Research Week 2022. In this series of panels, students from the Professional Writing Minor (PWM) will present an exciting array of capstone seminar projects. Students from diverse majors will share their original work in a range of genres including personal memoirs, professional websites, video productions, cultural criticism, and more. There will be nine 45-minute panels, beginning at 9am, 10am, and 11am on May 25th (in Powell 186), 26th (in Kaplan 193), and 27th (in Powell 186). Join to experience writing as an act of both communication and exploration. To learn more details about topics and presenters, visit bit.ly/pwmcsc22.

First-Gen Class of 2022 Cord Celebration
Join us for a fun afternoon of celebration for the Class of 2022! On Tuesday, May 24th from 4-6pm in Royce Quad, First To Go will be passing out cords, providing a free professional headshot, and celebrating our seniors with free giveaways! This event is open to students, staff, and faculty, and cords are available to all first-gen graduating students (undergraduate and graduate). Please note that cords are first come first serve, and we will share additional pick-up locations and times for those that can’t make the event soon. Any additional questions can be directed to firsttogo@orl.ucla.edu.

CONDUITS
Are you looking for hidden campus gems to enhance your time at UCLA? Look no further! Every week Conduits will feature a campus resource, selected by our very own CAC Peer Counselors, that will help you maximize your academic and social experience at UCLA.

Black Bruin Resource Center
The Black Bruin Resource Center (BBRC) serves to provide a safe and holistic space for Black Bruins to organize, network, and engage in leadership and personal development. Located at Kerckhoff 164 and 168, the Center aims to foster engagement between students, faculty, staff, alumni, and community stakeholders at UCLA. BBRC hosts several events including the Black Convocation and the Black Faculty and Graduate Student Dinner Mixer, which are a series of events that serve to foster the social and cultural needs of the Black community on campus. The Center is open from Monday to Friday from 9am - 9pm. For more information on the Black Bruin Resource Center, please visit their website, https://blackbruinresourc.center.ucla.edu/, and/or follow them on Instagram @uclabrcc.
