What's Happening Week 1?

Student Research Program (SRP) 99
Are you interested in research but not sure how to get involved? Learn more about Student Research Program (SRP) 99! UCLA's SRP 99 Program assists undergraduates in obtaining research and creative skills, defining academic interests and objectives, and becoming a part of the larger university research community. Enrolling in a SRP-99 course allows undergraduates to receive one to two academic credits (Pass/No Pass) for engaging in research under the supervision of a UCLA faculty. SRP-99 courses are particularly suited for entry-level research experiences for lower-division and new transfer students. SRP-99 is offered by both the Undergraduate Research Center for Sciences and Humanities, Arts, and Social Sciences. Visit their websites to learn more about the process of developing a contract course with UCLA faculty to enroll in the program!

CAC Peer Counselor In-Person Stations
Do you have academic questions surrounding enrollment, major/minor exploration, or degree requirements? Come visit our College Academic Counseling Peer Counselors at our in-person stations located outside the Geology Building/Young Hall in the Court of Sciences, and near the Registrar’s window in Murphy Hall (1st floor)! The Court of Sciences station is open Monday through Thursday from 9 AM to 3 PM, and the Registrar’s station is open Monday through Friday from 10 AM to 3 PM. For more information and most updated hours, visit our CAAC website. We look forward to connecting with you!

CONDUITS
Are you looking for hidden campus gems to enhance your time at UCLA? Look no further! Every week Conduits will feature a campus resource, selected by our very own CAC Peer Counselors, that will help you maximize your academic and social experience at UCLA.

Black Bruin Resource Center
Looking for a place to hang out in between classes on campus? Check out the Black Bruin Resource Center! The Black Bruin Resource Center, also known as the BBRC, is a cultural community space designed to uplift, support, and inspire Black members of the African Diaspora UCLA Community. The BBRC serves as a cultural hub to serve the social and cultural needs of Black Bruin. The Center is located in Kerckhoff, 164 and 168. During the school year, it’s open Monday through Friday from 9am to 8pm. Check out their website to learn more about their programming and updated hours of operation and follow them on Instagram @UCLABBRC.
